

Seghesio Family Vineyards farms 300 acres of superior vineyards collected since 1895, when Edoardo Seghesio planted his first Zinfandel vines in Sonoma County's Alexander Valley. Each site was chosen by five generations of Seghesio winemakers and growers for the individuality of its environment.

Inspired by Sonoma County's similarity in climate and topography to his native Northern Italy, Edoardo Seghesio planted the Chianti Station vineyard on our Home Ranch in 1910. Today verified as the oldest planting of Sangiovese in America, those vines laid the foundation for Seghesio Family Vineyards' Italian varietal program.
