“This wine includes fruit from the original Seghesio planting in 1895; five generations later, the family continues to base its business on zinfandel. Their 2019 is a muscular wine, a lasting mineral essence tied to the intensity and concentration of old-vine fruit. Its juiciness feels like it comes directly from the grape skins, broad and generous. “The tannins are in sync and the wine shows integrity,” said James Conely of Keen’s Chop House in NYC. It’s youthfully tight, set to age for a decade or more.”
